Let's get RAW! The last thing California needs is another Japanese restaurant. Hasn't the "Fusion" chain thing been done? With all the delays for the grand opening of Katsuya, Hollywood, I decided to visit Katsuya, Brentwood. I was curious to see after the buzz had dwindled if the food was still up to Chef Uechi's top notch standards. Fortunately, you can't go wrong with atmosphere created by Phillippe Stark, and I must admit, the fresh herb martinis tantalized my tastebuds. If rubbing elbows with celebs, fashionistas and attitude are what you crave, that's guaranteed. But, prepare your palate for pure style served cold. Make your mouth water with the Kiwi Scallop Yuzu, if that doesn't work, the Spicy Albacore Sashimi with Crispy Onions will. Let's see what happens in Hollywood!
